Bits from Bob

Our Operations Supervisor

did you know that....

- Furnaces consume less energy if they can “breathe” easily, so change your furnace filters regularly during the cooling season.
- Install a programmable thermostat to raise the temperature when you are sleeping or away.
- Have your heating ducts sealed. According to the Department of Energy, leaking ducts can decrease the overall efficiency of your heating and cooling system by as much as 25-40%.
- It does not cost much, saves on your utility bills and gives you the piece of mind that you are doing your part to improve your indoor air quality. Let us help you feel good indoors!

HUMIDITY FACTS

This may come as a surprise to you but lower humidity:

- Means lower electric bills in the summer,
- The lower the humidity level in your house, the cooler it feels.
- You can turn your thermostat up and run your A/C less, which saves you money.
- A properly sized A/C unit will reduce the humidity in your house.
- Remember it is not the heat that makes us uncomfortable, It's the humidity.
- Install attic fans to ventilate the attic and humidity controlled fans for the crawlspace.

When that cold, dry air is drawn inside your home by your heating system, you and your family end up suffering from the harmful effects of very dry air. Dry air in your home acts like a sponge seeking out and absorbing moisture wherever it can find it. Although daily showers and baths will help to increase the moisture in your home, studies have shown that it is not nearly enough.

Rule of Thumb

Summer remove humidity, winter add humidity!

On a personal side

Bob & wife Grace have an 18 month old son named Teddy who will be turning 2 in June 2011

Al and wife Adisa just recently gave birth to a new baby girl who they named Selma, this makes two beautiful girls for them and they are enjoying them in their first home that they purchased in 2009.

Kevin & Jamie are taking up housekeeping in their 1st home that they just purchased.

Hilda & husband George were just advised by their daughter Lisa that they are going to be Grandma & Grandpa in June of 2011.

Brenda & Jerry now have (7) grandchildren and (3) great grandchildren and they enjoy spending time with them all, especially for their birthdays and around the holidays.

In April 2010 Bob & Jerry went on a tour of the Carrier manufacturing facility in Indianapolis, they were guests of International Comfort Products maker of the Comfortmaker line of products . They were rather impressed with how clean the facility was and the testing that each piece of equipment goes through before it leaves the factory.
